Lindalyn Kakadelis, executive director of the N.C. Coalition for Charter Schools, said, "These General Assembly candidates support public charter schools and the options they offer families in choosing an educational environment that helps a child reach his or her full potential. The Coalition's sole mission is to protect and promote public charter schools, and it's in that spirit we recommend voters support these candidates."

Public charter schools, which are free, public, and open to all, are a popular option for families seeking the best educational fit for their children. Enrollment in North Carolina public charter schools increased 24.3% in the past five years, more than double the national average. More than 80,000 students were on public charter school waitlists last year.
